TO COMBAT the impoverishment of the bone or muscular system, as much in children as in adults, there is no medicine that can be compared with
SCOTT'S EMULSION.
Cordoba, R. A.,
16th November, 1890,
Messrs. Scott and Bowne,
New York,
Dear Sirs,
I have pleasure in informing you that I have used with preference your Emulsion in cases of congenital weakness, scrofula, chronic bronchitis and generally with all cases at my clinics for both children and adults, in which the impoverishment of the bone or muscular systems had to be opposed, and in all of them I have been happy in finding SCOTT'S EMULSION a very powerful preparation. The impoverishment resulting so frequently in children who suffer from bronchial or lung troubles, finds in your preparation a sure element of organic restoration. I am pleased to communicate you this for your purposes as proposad.
Your obedient servant,
DR. GOMEZ

Telegrams

(Per Havas Agency.)

British and French Admirals fired on in Crete.

English officer disarmed by mob.

Ultimatum of British Admiral.

Charges against Prince Constantine.

Extraordinary scenes in Spanish Senate.

Marseilles 21st—Telegrams from Oran (Algiers) state that serious disturbances occurred there yesterday. A group of 1200 workmen paraded through the streets uttering threatening shouts against the Jews. Several Jewish warehouses were finally attacked and sacked. The troops garrisoned there had to interfere in order to restore order.

Constantinople, 21st—The intervention of the Great Powers in the Greco-Turco conflict has caused disgust in military circles. Numerous influential men are opposed to the altering of the conditions and demands of the Turkish Government for peace with Greece. They assert that the Sublime Porte should insist on the whole of Thessaly being returned, or else continue the war until Greece submits unconditionally.

Paris, 21st—The Prime Minister will to-morrow answer an interpelation made by a Deputy to-day with reference to the Eastern Question and what policy France is following in the matter.

Madrid, 21st—Telegrams received from the United States with reference to Cuba are much commented on. The Senate's action in voting the motion to recognize the Cuban rebels as belligerents is not considered as important, as Government believes that the House of Representatives will not sanction it. Should it do so President McKinley will no doubt veto it.

Paris, 21st—Government to-day distributed another 170 medals to the persons who distinguished themselves during the fire at the Charity Bazar. M. Barthon presented the medals to those who deserved them in the presence of a large and select number of people. The ceremony took place in the building occupied by the offices of the Home Minister. Georges, a coachman who performed the most heroic deeds at the fire, received the Cross of the Legion of Honour.

London, 21st—The charges of cowardice and incompetence brought against the Crown Prince of Greece by the Athens Press have just been renewed. These charges will, due to the present unsettled state of the country, prove fatal to the members of the Reigning House, who can scarcely support the weight of present adversity. There are many witnesses who declare that they saw the Crown Prince shut up in his lodgings in Larissa, reading novels and smoking cigarettes while his forces on the frontier were fighting the enemy.

These witnesses furthermore declare that the Crown Prince abandoned Larissa during a critical moment, promptad by fear. His departure had all the characteristics of a flight. In order to escape he took all the waggons of the train, for himself and his horses and ejected women and children from the train leaving them to do as best they could. Amilcare Cipriani is loud in praise of the bravery of the Greek troops, who were ready to support every kind of hardship and make every sacrifice. He paints the utter incapacity of the officers who commanded them in the blackest colours. The Italian volunteers and all the Greek Army are very bitter in their language about their Commanders and officers for their bad conduct and incapacity. These revelations, supported by witnesses, are the subject of much comment by the Press and political circles in Europe.

Athens, 21—The Turks continued the attack on the Greeks in Phourka and then on the Greek positions opposite Taratza, on Wednesday, trying to cut off their retreat Severe fighting followed which only closed on the arrival of the news of the Armistice. The Greeks then retreated on Lamia whilst the Turks reconcentrated in Phourka.

London, 21st—The House of Commons this morning approved the second Reading of the Finance presented by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Michael Hicks Beach.

Paris, 21st—The signing of peace between Turkey and Greece is considered as very near at hand. The Great Powers are coming to an agreement with reference to the principal conditions of the Treaty which must be approved by all of them.

Athens, 21st—It is known on good authority that the Cretan Delegates will next week appoint a Provisional Government.

Rome, 21st—The debate on the African question was continued to-day in the Chamber of Deputies. The speakers are very excited and the discussion will have to be again continued to-morrow.

Paris, 21st—The "Correspondance Havas" published this evening an official communication containing a denial of the telegram from Constantinople, which appeared this morning in London, announcing that M. Cambon, the French Ambassador to the Porte, had asked for his papers and that diplomatic relations between France and Turkey had been broken off.

La Canea, 21st—The Bachi-Bazouks fired to-day several shots on a group of peasants in Suda amongst whom happened to be the English and French Admirals, neither of whom, happily, was wounded. The Mussulmans here declare that they will prevent by force the departure of the Turkish troops.

An English Lieutenant was disarmed to-day in the street by a mob of fanatics. The British Admiral at once sent an ultimatum demanding the restitution of the arms. The British cruiser Cambrian was this afernoon despatched to the Bay of Suda to chastize the Bashi-Bazouk.

Rome, 21st—The news of the death of Deputy Fratti in the battle of Domokos has been confirmed.

London, 21st—Her Majesty the Queen opened to-day the new Town Hall in Sheffield amid the enthusiastic cheering of the large crowds present at the ceremony.

THIS MORNING'S TELEGRAMS.

(Received after Midnight.)

Paris, 22nd (1.20 a.m.)—The Minister of Marine has just announced to the Press the news of the attempt made by the Bashi-Bazouks in Suda on the life of the French Admiral commanding the squadron in Cretan waters.

Madrid, 21st—Señor Cánovas del Castillo, the Prime Minister, declared to-night in the Chamber that no alarm should be felt at the recognition by the United States Senate of the Cuban rebels as belligerents, as there was no doubt that President McKinley would follow the example set by Cleveland some months ago when a similar step was taken by the Senate. Cánovas attributed the action of the Senate to its desire to create difficulties in the way of the adoption of the new Custom-House tariff passed in spite of the opposition offered by the majority in that Chamber.

Madrid, 21st—A most extraordinary scene of violence and confusion was witnessed to-night in the Senate. The Duke of Tetuan was insulted in every manner possible, short of blows, by the opposition for his policy in regard to the Cuban question and the recent recognition by the United States Senate of the rebels as belligerents. Senator Comas especially distinguished himself in the attack on the Minister for Foreign Affairs. When the Duke withdrew from the Chamber he met Comas in the passage and struck him in the face. The Liberal members thereupon also withdrew in a body as a protest against the Duke's conduct. Senator Comas subsequently sent his seconds to demand satisfaction but it was eventually decided by a Court of Honor that no duel was necessary since both gentlemen had been equally insulted.

THE NEW WAR MINISTER.

After a somewhat anxious period of deliberation and hesitation, synonymous terms that mark quite a feature in President Uriburu's line of conduct, the vacancy in the Cabinet has been supplied, and General Levalle has been appointed Minister of War. We make no apology for drawing special attention to this subject, for, although it might be contended that the event is one of strictly local importance, it would be easy to show that the War Office, at least within the last year or so, is a very powerful spring in the mechanism of international polity in S. America. So long as we keep our navy up to the mark and our army on a proper footing and avoid that disorganization and demoralization with which abuses had begun to undermine the reliability of that necessary institution, our loving neighbors will entertain for us a respect which our brilliant parts, our progress and our national pride may not be sufficient to excite.

The appointment of General Levalle has been received with every demonstration of welcome, and we are told that in the annals of the Government House there is no record of a more brilliant and more numerous gathering of officers and civilians than that which assembled on the occasion of the swearing-in of the new Minister, for this is not the first time the portfolio has been entrusted to the gallant General. Nevertheless, the circumstances are so altered that practically the General comes on the scene as a new man. There is no more popular officer in the army than General Levalle. He is idolised by the soldiers who, in many a campaign now forgotten by the fickle public, have seen him share their toil and their privations. And amongst the officers, old and young, he is liked and respected, for they know by experience that whatever may be his defects—and who is perfect even in the Argentine Republic?—he has his heart in the right place, and that he has never availed of his influence or position to indulge any feeling of spite or paltry resentment.

The elements are so mixed up in the General that we may account him a wonderful combination. It would take a very sharp pen to probe beneath the cover of his characteristic bonhomie and trace his qualifications for the high post to which he has been raised, partly, like the Turk, by the rivalry and clashing interests of his compeers, and partly, chiefly we should say, by his own prestige and popularity. We should, perhaps, best convey an idea of his merits, if, falling back on Aristotlelian phraseology, we were to say that although defficient in techné, he shines by his phronesis, and that this quality combined with an unquestionably natural goodness of heart, has produced that "sophia" which Ruskin, placing it above art, science and learning, reckons to be the one great qualification for ruling. This attempt at defining the merits of the General may be Greek to many of his admirers, but, on the whole it conveys, without wounding susceptibilities, a very fair measure of his ability, and we will venture to predict that he will make an excellent War Minister. We are still of opinion that the management of military matters, under ordinary circumstances, should be entrusted to a well trained, well schooled officer capable not only of leading a charge and encouraging his soldiers by his bravery, but also and more especially of understanding, directing and controlling the technical and scientific sections of so complicated an administration as the governing of the army. There are, no doubt, moments when other qualities are needed. In 1880, if we may appeal to recent history for an example, the position of affairs was such that only a man of extraordinary prestige and equally extraordinary volition and energy, could be raised to the War Office with any hope of saving the stranded Ship of State. Our older readers, and particularly General Levalle himself, will recall the circumstances of that sanguinary period when a rapidly approaching decomposition was arrested by the appointment of Dr. Pellegrini to the control of the portfolio of War. The appointment was almost immediately followed by an act of truly Pellegrinian energy. The seat of Government was removed to a suburb, and the city was declared in a state of siege—a dual measure the wisdom of which, though violently disputed at first, was not long in bearing excellent fruit for the National Party.

If we pursue this train of reasoning, we should be tempted to say that, independently of the crucial circumstances induced by the rivalry between the trained and untrained officers, the condition of things, when General Campos was dislodged from the War Office, rendered indispensable the appointment of a civilian not only of talent but of a tendency to retrench and economise—in a word a close-fisted unbending functionary such as Mr. Villanueva proved himself to excess. And now that Mr. Villanueva is gone and forgotten, only a man like General Levalle, idolised by the soldiers, loved by his officers, and enjoying a high degree of popularity, can do away with the incipient disorganization brought on by intrigues and discontent. As soon as things have been put straight, it will be time to look for another minister.

THE QUEEN'S REIGN.

(By M. G. Mulhall.)

VI.—AGRICULTURE.

This is the only important branch of industry in which we have made no progress in the last sixty years. When Queen Victoria was proclaimed in 1837, we grew as much wheat as fed our people eleven months in the year: at present the United Kingdom does not raise enough for 2¼ months' supply. Agriculture has been for many years unprofitable to all concerned in it, and as capital has an irresistible tendency to run out of losing trades, we must not be surprised to find that the business of farming has declined. Notwithstanding the adoption of Free Trade in 1846, agricultural capital and products increased steadily in value till 1878, but since the latter year farming interests have declined so rapidly that there has been a loss of 450 millions sterling, viz:—

	Capital, Millions £
	1846	1880	1895
Land	1,705	2,086	1,686
Cattle	150	209	202
Sundries	185	230	189
Total	2,040	2,525	2,077

In the above table the value of land is taken at thirty times the assessed annual rental, which is probably more than it would now realise. The loss of agricultural capital since 1880 has averaged 30 millions a year, but the increase of wealth in all other pursuits has been so steady and uniform that the bulk of the nation has regarded such loss with philosophic equanimity. If we consider the subject from a purely economic point of view, a continuance of the present system is most desirable for Great Britain, however bad for Ireland.

There are, nevertheless, thousands of arm-chair politicians who cannot reflect without apprehension on the fact that we are dependent on foreign countries for our bread supply. Some even entertain the idea that the progressive ruin of Ireland may come ultimately to affect Great Britain; but these are so few in number as not to cause a general feeling of anxiety.

The consumption of wheat in the United Kingdom since 1837 has been as follows:

	Tons Yearly
Period	Native	Imported	Total
1837-40	2,800,000	250,000	3,050,000
1861-70	2,720,000	1,810,000	4,530,000
1891-95	1,270,000	4,800,000	6,070,000

There has not been such a falling-off in the production of any other kind of grain as in wheat. Production and consumption are shown as follows:—

	Millions of bushels yearly
	Production
Period	Wheat	Oats, &c	Total	Imported all Grain	Total Consumpt
1841-50	115	230	345	31	376
1861-70	109	250	359	126	485
1891-95	51	244	295	348	643

At present we import 35 per cent. of all grain consumed, whereas before the Crimean War our imports were under 10 per cent. Meantime there has been such a fall in prices that farmers have felt the presure of hard times, viz:—

	Shillings per qr.			Price-level
	Wheat	Barley	Oats	Wheat	Brly	Oats	Aver.
1857	56	42	25	100	100	100	100
1877	57	40	26	102	95	104	100
1887	33	25	16	59	60	64	61
1895	23	22	15	41	52	60	51

Prices in 1877 were on the same level all round as twenty years before, but there has been a fall of 49 per cent. since 1877, which has been such a serious blow to tillage, that the total area under crops is now two million acres less than in 1846, viz:—

	Acres
	1846	1895
England	13,300,000	12,550,000
Scotland	3,390,000	3,510,000
Ireland	5,240,000	3,990,000
United Kingdom	21,930,000	20,050,000

At the same time there has been a considerable increase in pastoral industry, the area under grass being now five million acres more than it was then, viz:—

	Acres
	1846	1895
Crops	21,930,000	20,050,000
Grass	22,940,000	27,830,000
Total	44,870,000	47,880,000

It has, therefore, come to pass that the value of pastoral products has increased so much as to exceed that of crops, whereas in 1846 crops formed two-thirds of the gross farming products. M'Culloch estimated the annual value of products in 1846 at £218,000,000, Caird in 1878 at £261,000,000, but there has been such a fall since the latter year that the value in 1895 did not exceed £230,000,000. We have already seen that the landowners have lost 30 millions per annum since 1880, and from Caird's statement it appears that the tenants likewise lose 31 millions a year. The values in 1895 were approximately as follows:—

	G. Britain	Ireland	U.Kingdom
	£	£	£
Grain	31,800,000	6,400,000	38,200,000
Hay and Straw	33,000,000	11,000,000	44,000,000
Green crops	33,200,000	10,600,000	43,800,000
Meat	40,600,000	14,600,000	55,200,000
Dairy, &c.	36,400,000	12,400,000	48,800,000
Total	175,000,000	55,000,000	230,000,000

The gross farming product in England in 1895 averaged 132 shillings per acre of tillage, and 84 shillings of pasture. An estimate was published in 1888 to show that the cost of working a farm of 100 acres in England, 40 arable, and 60 pasture, was 18 per cent. less than in the time of the war against Bonaparte, viz:—

	1813. £	1888. £
Rent	118	120
Taxes	70	42
Team	99	100
Labour, &c.	239	188
Total	526	450

The gross product of such a farm in 1895 would have been:—

	Acres	£
Tillage	40	264
Pasture	60	252
Total	100	516

This would leave a balance of £66, say 25 shillings a week, for support of the farmer and his family, a very poor return for a man with an invested capital of say at least £600. A journeyman carpenter or painter would earn more. The above figures, of course, apply to England, but in Ireland the margin of profit would be less (even though expenses be less), as the gross product averages only 72 shillings, against 106 shillings per acre in England.

There is only one favourable feature as regards farming in the United Kingdom, namely, that machinery effects such a saving of labour as to give a higher average value of products to each farm-hand, viz:—

Year	Hands	Product £	£ per Hnd
1846	3,519,000	218,000,000	62
1895	2,527,000	230,000,000	91

This shows that two farm-hands now produce as much as three did fifty years ago. But it does not follow that the tenant-farmer is much the gainer, for Sir James Caird has shown that wages have risen from 12 pence to 30 pence daily for ordinary farm-labourers. As the numbers in the preceding table include boys and women, and as wages in Ireland are lower than in England, we may take the average wages all round at two-thirds of Caird's figures for both dates, and then the cost of farm labour in the United Kingdom will come out as follows:—

	Hands	Pence daily	£ per annum
1846	3,519,000	12½	56,700,000
1895	2,527,000	20	65,300,000

Notwithstanding the use of machinery and saving of hands, the farmer has now to pay 27 shillings an acre for labour, against 25 shillings in 1846. The productive area, as shown at page 26, has increased 7½ per cent., but the bill for labour has risen £8,600,000, or 15 per cent., so that the farmer is in this respect worse off than he was fifty years ago. There has been at the same time a great increase of rates and taxes on farmers, as shown by the following statement published in 1890 for the United Kingdom, based on Mr. Goschen's inquiry:—

	1894. £	1890. £
Tithes	3,000,000	4,050,000
Rates	5,300,000	11,800,000
Taxes	3,900,000	4,950,000
Total	12,210,000	20,800,000
England	10,160,000	16,200,000
Scotland	950,000	1,900,000
Ireland	1,100,000	2,700,000
Total	12,210,000	20,800,000

The increase in forty-four years was 60 per cent., in England, 100 per cent. in Scotland, and 145 per cent. in Ireland, making altogether an additional burthen of £8,600,000 on agricultural industry. In view of these fresh burthens, of the fall in agricultural prices, and the rise in wages, Sir James Caird predicted in 1878 that British farming would soon have to pass through an epoch of severe trial, unless a great reduction of rents were to take place. Many landowners in England made generous abatements, others foolishly allowed farms to lie derelict; and as regards Ireland, the new Land Court has reduced the rents of half the kingdom by exactly 20 per cent (from £5,9800,000 to £4,740,000). Nevertheless the land-rental of the United Kingdom is higher now than it was in 1846, for although England shows a reduction, owing to the greater humanity of the landowners, there has been a marked rise in Scotland and Ireland, as the official figures show:

	1894	1895	Increase
	£	£	£
England	40,200,000	39,630,000	—
Scotland	5,600,000	6,195,000	595,000
Ireland	8,630,000	9,895,000	1,265,000
U.Kingdom	54,430,000	55,720,000	—

In view of the foregoing facts, it is not surprising that agriculture has lost ground, nor that every workhouse in England contains among its inmates a number of men who were once thriving farmers. Rather must we wonder that farming has survived. But the position is still one of such trial that it is likely tillage will continue in its downward course, until the British Islands become one vast grazing farm. The cost of labour, as already shown, averages for the United Kingdom 27 shillings per acre—say 30 shillings in Great Britain, and 21 shillings in Ireland; let us add together rent, taxes, and labour, 30 shillings an acre all round, and allow for team and sundries, whereupon the account will stand thus:—

	Great Britain	Ireland	U.Kingdom
	£	£	£
Rent	45,800,000	9,900,000	55,700,000
Taxes	18,100,000	2,700,000	20,800,000
Labour	49,200,000	16,100,000	65,300,000
Team, &c.	49,200,000	22,800,000	72,000,000
Expenses	162,300,000	51,500,000	213,800,000

If we deduct the above expenses from the value of products, the result will be as follows:—

	Product	Expenses	Nett
	£	£	£
Great Britain	175,000,000	162,300,000	12,700,000
Ireland	55,000,000	51,500,000	3,500,000
U. Kingdom	230,000,000	213,800,000	16,200,000

This leaves a margin of 8 shillings an acre in Great Britain and 4½ shillings in Ireland. That is to say, a tenant-farmer holding 50 acres would have £20 a year surplus in Great Britain, or £11 in Ireland.

GRAIN ELEVATORS FOR THE MADERO DOCKS.

It is with satisfaction we announce that the Finance Minister, Dr. Escalante, has signed the decree approving of Mr. William Goodwin's important project for grain elevators in the Madero Docks, and we hope soon to see great buildings rising up in Dock No. 2 to face the long line of Fiscal Deposits built by the Government for their Custom House work.

It is difficult to understand the long delay in making any adequate provision for the export side of the Docks, which still presents a very unfinished and desolate appearance, although Docks No. 1 and No. 2 were opened for traffic in 1890 and Dock No. 3 in 1892.

The cattle 'embarcaderos' have done good work and been managed very nearly from the start with excellent results, but only at a very recent date have railway lines been laid down to bring waggons of grain alongside of the steamers, and, if we omit three (3) very ordinary galpones, no accommodation has been provided for cereal export, and the Docks that have cost some $5,000,000 gold are no better equipped for work than small loading places on the River Paraná. Rosario has fine elevators and large storehouses, but the Port of Buenos Aires, by which nearly all our imports enter and the bulk of the Agricultural products of the Queen Province leave the country, does not possess a granary of any importance, with the solitary exception of the Great Southern Railway Elevator at Barracas. The Mercado Central de Frutos has for some time been fully occupied with wool and hides, and there is no other large deposit available to receive cargo ready for ocean steamers, some of which can carry away 6000 tons in their capacious holds, and whose agents grudge the time spent in receiving cargo, wagon by wagon, with constant delays of shunting.

The necessity for grain elevators to prepare wheat for export has been recognized and proclaimed by every newspaper in Buenos Aires for years past, and recently the urgent necessity for some proper means of drying damp maize has been made manifest by most serious losses caused by deterioration of quality on the voyage.

Successive Finance Ministers have never grappled the question of developing the work of the docks, and have been nervous about letting anything go out of Government hands, and it remained for Dr. Pellegrini to set forth in one of his eloquent and lucid speeches during the debate on the subject in Congress that the management of a Grain Elevator is not much more within the province of a Government than the running of a hat factory.

Very much owing to his arguments, a special law was passed authorizing the P.E. to grant a suitable Lease for the use of Land, so that private enterprize might be induced to provide the capital necessary for costly installations. Dr. Escalante has taken a most intelligent interest in the subject and while carefully providing for a fair scale of charges, has recognized that capitalists must have a charter liberal enough to give them a chance of fair return on the investment.

We don't pretend to understand the plans we have seen, but are content to know that all the Railway Managers have approved them, and that Mr. Goodwin proposes to erect a great system of Granaries to hold about 60,000 tons of cereals and having machinery to load six steamers at one time if necessary, and to weigh, dry, clean, and otherwise prepare for export the grain that is sent to market by 'chacareros' in a very irregular state.

THE THAMES'S MAILS.

London, May 1st.

The House of Commons re-assembled on Monday, when the Necessitous School Boards Bill was read a second time. On Tuesday a motion for an inquiry into the grievances of Indian Army officers was defeated, and Sir Howard Vincent's resolution demanding a protective import duty on foreign manufactures met the same fate. A Bill to prevent the distranchisement of policemen and shop assistants was read a second time on Wednesday; but Sir J. B. Maple's Bill to abolish the present peculiarities of School Board elections was rejected by 127 to 80.

Out of doors we have had speeches from Sir William Harcourt, who denounced the Government's Eastern policy; Mr. Long, who defended his muzzling order; Mr. Courtney, Sir H. H. Fowler, and the Duke of Westminster.—The Crewe election is not to be held after all, Mr. Ward having decided to withhold his resignation.—The Dangerous Performances Bill has been denounced by a meeting of acrobats.

The Central Council of Diocesan Conferences met on Wednesday and discussed the Clerical Sustentation Fund, and the associating of Voluntary schools under the new Act.—Our ecclessiastical intelligence is swollen this week by the beginning of the "May Meeting" season.—A letter is published from Mr. Gladstone, referring to Anglican orders; and the wearing of the mitre in Church is denounced by another writer.—The Church Missionary Society's accounts show a deficit of £23,000.—A committee of the English Presbyterian Synod has thrown out, on technical grounds, a heresy petition presented against "Ian Maclaren."

The Teachers' Guild has been in session at Norwich this week. The National Union of Teachers closed its session at Swansea last week, after an interesting address from Lady Jersey.

THE GREEK DEBACLE.

FLIGHT FROM TYRNAVOS.

(Abridged from the Morning Post.)

London, 28th April.

The war correspondent writing from Athens 27th inst says:—

"Suddenly, however, a strong force of Turkish Cavalry made a rush from behind the wooded surroundings of Kutavi, and joined several other squadrons of Turkish Cavalry which had evidently pushed on from Dereli, in the Vale of Tempe.

Almost immediately afterwards the villages of Kutavi and Deliler were set on fire, and the day's operations terminated amidst a lurid glow from the burning houses.

* * *

Expecting that the battle would be resumed at dawn on Saturday morning, I returned to Tyrnavo, where I took up my quarters in a deserted house in a secluded part of the town, together with Lieutenant Western, of the Swedish Staff.

* * *

About eleven o'clock, before turning in for the night, I went out to take a last look round. To my surprise I came across an ammunition train retiring from the front.

I was further astonished to learn, on inquiry, that the few inhabitants of Tyrnavo who had not previously fled had hours before received orders to leave immediately, that the Turks were coming up in force from Kurtsiovali through the Mount Elias Pass, and that the whole Greek Army was in full retreat, the last regiments of the left wing having already gone through, while the centre and the right wing were marching on Larissa by the Kazaklar road, on which the headquarters of the Greek Army, with the Crown Prince and General Macris, had been stationed.

The retreat had evidently been decided upon about eight o'clock, for at half-past eight the Foreign Legion, which had been held in reserve, was ordered to fall back on Larissa, which it did in good order, arriving about midnight.

The reason for the retreat no doubt was that the right wing, commanded by General Mavromichalis, had been outflanked and dangerously threatened by the Turkish advance from the Vale of Tempe, and, further, that the left had been turned by the Turks driving back the Greek division operating up in the mountains at Kurtsiovali.

My waggon had gone to Larissa carrying despatches, so Lieutenant Western and I resolved to walk.

Clearing Tyrnavo at midnight, we overtook the carriage of the Correspondent of the Illustrated London News, in which I was offered a place.

A mile farther on we came up with the Greek Infantry, marching in straggling order. They were footsore and grimy from their four days' work in the trenches and rifle pits, and their long exposure to the shell fire of the enemy had been enough to unnerve more seasoned soldiers.

In their ranks there was at first a weird silence, which contracted significantly with the incessant chattering in which the Greek soldiers usually indulged.

The night was very dark, so dark, indeed, that the stars seemed to burn holes in the black curtain of the sky overhead. Away to the south-east a red glare indicated where the villages of Kutavi and Deliler were still burning.

As we proceeded we passed several batteries of the Greek Artillery, mule trains, carts and waggons laden with household effects, and bands of crying villagers. The women and children were in a pitiable condition, and all, soldiers and civilians, were hopelessly mixed, the order of retreat having been completely lost.

Men of all arms were intermingled, and the confusion was increased by the shouts and rushes of the Evzones and irregulars in every sort of strange dress.

At the junction of the Tyrnavo and Kazaklar roads the straggling lines of both divisions of the retiring Army were heaped upon the road and upon the ploughed land on either side.

Sullenness had now given place to clamour, and the disappointed and dispirited men forgot their weariness in imprecations against their generals and officers.

The retreat had become a rout.

Our carriage was picking its way slowly through the crowd of desperate men, crying women and children, horses and donkeys overburdened and creeping at a snail's pace, or prancing in nervous fright, and I had just remarked to the Times Correspondent, who had joined our carriage, having lost his horse and baggage, that the Greeks at the mouth of the Bonghazi Pass seemed to be signalling to Larissa with the night heliograph, when suddenly above the din of the confused masses in the road and adjoining fields there came roar of horror and shouts of "the Turks are coming. Run for your lives."

At the side of our carriage two Infantry soldiers appeared, their faces blanched with terror. They jumped on the step. When we tried to keep them out one levelled his rifle. Then suddenly their weight overbalanced the vehicle, which overturned, and was smashed to pieces, all the occupants being thrown out. My leg was pinned down by the broken timbers, but I somehow managed to release it and join my fellow Correspondent. All the others had disappeared in the darkness.

Then began a perfect pandemonium. In their insane terror, soldiers, irregulars, and armed peasants commenced to fire their rifles in all directions.

From front and rear, right and left, bullets whizzed, the reports being scarcely heard above the roar of human voices and the screaming of the terror-stricken animals.

I had been through the Battle of the Shipka Pass and in the hottest part of the Plewna, but never before had I witnessed such wild firing as now took place. The whole place was lit by the constant flashes.

Keeping together we got into the road-side ditch, but we had only walked slowly forward a short distance when we were thrown down by a rush from behind.

When I regained my feet, after being trampled upon by scores of fugitives, an irregular who was rushing past suddenly turned, and deliberately raising his rifle within three inches of my head, fired. Just in time I ducked and fell, thus saving my life.

Meanwhile I had lost my companion. There was nothing to do but to walk on, now in the ditch, and anon on the ploughed land, keeping as free as possible from the thickest part of the stampede.

The pandemonium I have attempted to describe had spread over many miles.

When I returned to the road, stumbling over dead and dying animals, men and women, the scene was terrible in the extreme. It was piled up agony—Ossa upon Pelion with a vengeance.

The way strewn with ammunition boxes, broken carts, furniture, bedding, soldiers' blankets, and tin pannikins, the latter causing a constant clattering as they were kicked by the horses' feet, which also became entangled in the blankets and other litter. The horses continued to gallop frantically among the flying crowds. Many of them were riderless.

Deserted guns, munition waggons, and carts added to the general obstruction. The traces of the horses had been cut to enable the drivers and fugitives to fly more speedly. Those who were without horses attempted to dislodge those who were mounted. In some cases they succeeded, and, taking the places of the dispossessed riders, disappeared in the dark.

In this maddened crowd I struggled on for several miles. Some of the Greek officers, I know, did their duty. They ordered the trumpeters to sound "Cease firing" and rode about attempting to call a halt. Others, I am sorry to say, lost their reason, and rushed ahead as terror-stricken as their men.

The entrance to Larissa is by a bridge crossing the River Penelos, and here the clock of vehicles, guns, men and horses was for hours terrific and agonising.

When the determination to abandon Larissa was made known another stampede of the civil population occurred. Women, children and even men went about drawing their hands across their throats to show what might be expected from the Turks if they arrived, and in an incredibly short space of time the roads leading west and south to Volo and Pharsala were crowded with the panic-stricken population, vehicles and animals of every description bearing household effects, while less fortunate fugitives carried bundles of such things as they had been able to save on their backs.

It was lamentable to hear even the most wretched of these fugitives deploring the fate of "poor Greece," being evidently quite as much concerned on account of the national disaster as of their own individual ruin.

A special train composed of trucks conveyed to Volo about 3,000 of the population, people of every degree hanging on to the roofs and platforms like swarms of bees.

I found at Volo a scene of almost as great excitement as at Larissa. Constant streams of fugitives were arriving, and every few minutes rumours were spread as to the advance of the Turks, who, it was expected, would be in Volo within a few hours.

There was no steamer in the harbour except a Government vessel which had arrived that forenoon to convey the wounded to Athens.

There was a rush on all the available caiques, by means of which many of the well-to-do classes got away to Euboea and other islands with their belongings, having been absolutely refused even a deck passage to Athens by the steamer.

All telegrams being refused at the Volo office, I determined to take a caique, and having succeeded in hiring one, I went on board with my "carry-all", but before we could get away a great commotion arose, the crowd shouting to me to come out. Men rushed on board, threw but my cary-all, and pushed me ashore, the panic-stricken mob being evidently determined that if they could not escape no one else should get away. "We must all die together", they shouted.

Five newspaper correspondents were involved in the stampede, and all miraculously escaped. They were the representatives of the Times, Illustrated London News, and Manchester Guardian, Lieutenant Western, who is acting as correspondent for a newspaper in Stockholm, and myself. The correspondent of the Daily Chronicle remained for the night at Tyrnavo, hanging a Union Jack out of his window in case the Turks might actually appear. He arrived all right in the morning at Larissa, where the other correspondents had been from an early hour. The Times correspondent on Friday evening lost his horses and baggage, while the representative of the Illustrated London News lost all his sketches, baggage, money, and manuscripts.

In the grey morning an excited Frenchman kept exclaiming in the chief square of Larissa, "L'Armée Grecque n'existe plus". That is a wild exaggeration. The Greek army has sustained a strategic defeat, and has been compelled to fall back, which many a veteran has done before in the history of war.

It must be confessed that the organisation of the Greek forces has been extremely loose from the first, and it has been to a large extent broken for the moment.

LATEST FROM BAHIA BLANCA.

(From El Diario Del Comercio.)

The situation of the Military Port at P. Belgrano could not be better, as it contains a fine anchorage ground and offers every security for vessels taking shelter from a storm. The large ironclad Garibaldi and a British man-of-war are at present riding at anchor there. Preliminary works in the port have already commenced. The construction of one of the coast batteries has already commenced at Punta Sin Nombre, and the same will shortly be done with wharves, semaphores, telegraph offices, etc., so that they may be finished by next spring. A large quantity of timber is shortly expected from Tierra del Fuego for the construction of sheds, etc.

The hydrographic surveys and the perforating of wells have been successfully carried out under the careful supervision of the competent engineer Mr. Luiggi.

The perforations of the soil along the coast from Punta Alta to Arroyo Pareja have been attended with the best results, as hard "tosca" was found on which to lay the foundation for masonry works etc, at a depth of only a few metres. The water found in the wells is excellent and as pure as crsyta!. The owners of the town of Atlantida have generously given the National Government a present of 50 hectareas. This town will be in the centre of the buildings etc. attached to the port.

An English engineer sent by the Board of the Southern Railway has arrived out from England and will take a good look at the lands adjoining the military port, with a view to constructing a commercial one alongside or close by, as the wharf which the F. C. S. has at Bahia Blanca is too small for the requirements of the ever increasing traffic. The port will be connected with the railway line belonging to the same Company. A contract will at the same time be signed—by which the company binds itself to construct a railway to Punta Alta. It would take six months to lay down the line, while another two months hard work would see the rails touch the battery at "Punta Sin Nombre". Export and import business is considerably hampered by the small accommodation for goods offered by the wharf of the F. C. S. Vessels coming from foreign parts have to wait for several days before they can unload goods. The same occurs with vessels ready to load, the heavy wharfage dues, delays etc, make it cheaper for farmers and others to send their goods up to Buenos Aires by rail. It will thus be seen that a commercial port is very badly wanted indeed. There is a brisk business in the sale of land. Land opposite the future site of the market was sold last Sunday at prices ranging from 70 cents to $2.50 per sq. metre. Last year the land was only worth 30 cents per sq. metre. Other sales will take place next Sunday near Atlantida town.

GOVERNMENT AND THE LOCUSTS

The National Government is at this moment engaged in drawing up an important project referring to providing the means for the extinction of the locust. Dr. Bermejo will, in a short time, submit the project to Congress. The plan provides that the Active National Guard and Regular Army be engaged in the task, and at the same time compelling the inhabitants of every corner of the Republic to lend a helping hand when the locust pays the district in which they live a visit. Dr. Bermejo held a long council with Mr. Roberts, of the Western Railway, last Thursday, and offered him all the data collected with reference to the plague, in order that it might be submitted to Professor Brewer of the United States on his arrival here. This gentleman is expected in Buenos Aires during the course of the next few days, according to telegrams received by the Merchants' Committee.

THEATRES AND AMUSEMENTS.

"Il Figlioul Prodigo" will be sung to-night in the Opera House with Signorinas Carmen Bonaplata Bau and Guerrini, and Mariacher and Scotti.

Only a moderate audience attended Prince George's Hall last night, but those who were present had a great treat in listening to the concert given by Sr. Alfredo Napoleon. It is difficult to select any special piece from a programme full of artistic merit, and where every performer is of the highest class, but mention must be made of the selection from Chopin, "Berceuse" and "Ballade" played with exquisite taste by Sr. Napoleon, and the "Grand Concierto", by A. Napoleon, and the "Fantaisse Hongroise," by Liszt, in both of which pieces Sr. Napoleon was accompanied by Srta. Duhart, an ex-pupil of the professor. These pieces were received with great applause, and, in themselves, would have repaid the audience for their attendance. In other selections Sr. Napoleon was accompanied by Professors Cattelani, and T. Marenco.

The excellent programme of the San Martin will be considerably added to to-night and amongst the novelties will be the Serpentine Dance on horseback by Miss Taylor. This is a most graceful act and has always attracted when it has been given.

LA PLATA.

(From our own Correspondent)

May 21st.

A Shooting Tournament will take place here on the 27th inst. The prizes are gold, silver and bronze medals most artistically finished.

The news of the day is principally confined to the usual list of crimes, which in so large a Province as Buenos Aires must always assume almost startling proportions.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Winter jumped suddenly out of autumn's lap yesterday and started on his own account, top-coats and "tapados" being the order of the day. At a post-prandial hour Jupiter Pluvius sprinkled the hats of B. A. humanity with a mild shower. The news of the day wasn't hot. The news from Europe was sad. The most distressing charges are made against Prince Constantine of scandalous personal cowardice in face of the enemy and utter incompetency for the responsible post so foolishly entrusted to him. If this be true he has as much chance of wearing the crown of Greece as we have; and, if his father, King George, manage to keep his crown, his exasperated and humiliated subjects will insist on his son George—a splendid, plucky fellow—inheriting it. It was, probably, for George's sake that the Czar ordered the Sultan to grant the armistice, as the young Autocrat is known to be deeply grateful to his stalwart first cousin for saving his life from the hands of a fanatic when he went to Japan with him as Czarevitch. Constantine can never show his face in Athens again.

There was another no-quo in Congress yesterday. The Deputies did not come to the scratch, probably owing to the cold weather.

In addition to all the other military and naval resignations consequent on the change of Boss in the War Office, there is now that of Captain Garcia Chief of the Naval Staff. This is the heaviest blow of all; as the Argentine fleet made more progress under his vigorous handling than it ever made before. However, the gallant and talented officer is pretty certain to come prominently to the front again before long. Last night General Godoy was named Chief of the Army Staff and Commodore Rivadavia Chief of the Navy Staff. Naval Captain Valentin Feilberg is thought to be the likeliest candidate for the sub-secretaryship of Marine, and Mr. G. N. Williams for the Marine Commissariat Department.

That infernal machine sent to President Borda was not opened yesterday either; but the experts tried the famous X rays on it in order to see what is inside it. Everybody in Montevideo is laughing at the affair, and the latest rumour is that the contents are nothing but rotten sausages as there is a smell from the box that would kill a horse.

To-day's great event is the official inauguration of the North Dock of the Madero Port, now complete. It will be a grand affair, if the weather is fine. Ministers, Senators, Deputies and half the big wigs in the city will be there.

Two holidays next week readers, so make your arrangements. The 27th, Ascension Day, is one of the great Feasts of the Church.

Now then our jovial juvenile friends listen to this. The dance, the very best, tip-top, gilt edged dance of the Diamond Jubilee Year will be the Childrens' Ball, your very own Ball, next month. What do you think of that? No other than Santa Klaus himself has been at work in London for the last six months and when the time comes you will see what you will see. Your very own Ball is going to be an historical event. When you are all grandmothers and grandfathers you will look back to it and couple the memory of Victoria the Good with the way you pas de quatre'd in Prince George's Hall. Now you juvenile jubilee junketers dont mention this because it is a secret. The very last shipment from Santa Klaus has arrived. The Custom House has had a pretty bad time of it, but at last it is relieved of an unexpected pressure. And about the Ball itself, is it to be fancy dress or not? If you have any idea on the subject, or have any suggestion to make, out with your pens, and write what you think to the Honorable member for your Community, Mr. A. E. Bowen, at the sign of the Magic Lantern in the Street Piedras No 75. Don't forget its your own Ball, and besides he's all right, he won't peach.

We know that some of our readers strongly object to having their children vaccinated to prevent them getting small-pox, as they believe the operation to be not only useless but harmful. This idea is fast gaining ground in England, where a National Anti-vaccination League was formed last year, and has just held its first General Meeting, a report of which has sent been us, and we shall be happy to lend it to any of our anti-vaccination readers.

Among the many passengers that leave by the "R. M. S." Thames is Mr. A. J. Knight, who has been employed on the Ensenada Railway for 10 years, as sub-accountant. He goes to the old country on a well earned holiday, and we wish him a pleasant journey and a speedy return.

The Village of the Plain, blooming Flores, will honour its Patron Saint to-morrow, and there will be all kinds of things religious and profane, amongst them acrobatic performances in the Plaza, which will make it a gala day for the children.

The Finance Minister sent to Congress yesterday a Bill asking for a million of dollars to purchase seed for distressed Santa Fé farmers.

To-night in Quilmes at 8 o'clock, in the hall of the Protestant Association, the Rev. A. R. Howell lectures on "Scottish Religion." Mr. Robert Clark will be in the chair. All welcome.

Monday, the 24th instant. being the Queen's Birthday, the British Minister, the Honble. W. Barrington, will be at home from 3 to 6 p. m. at his private residence, Num 1136 Uruguay.

Here is a cool $100,000 gone where the woodbine twineth, for the want of ordinary caution. A syndicate bought the sole right to take and exhibit a kinetoscope photograph of the recent Fitzsimons-Corbett prize fight. Especially long films were arranged, but for some reason known only to those having charge of the matter, only one camera was set up and used. Everything went well apparently and the film negative was carefully packed and sent East to be developod and worked up, when, to use the chief operator's own words, "during the process of developing, the negative film showed about every imperfection known to modern photography! It is utterly useless".

The Tiro Federal Tournament, for which the entries close to-day, will be the grandest thing of the kind ever seen in South America. The Queen Regent of Spain, the King of Italy, the Prince of Wales and President Faure have sent prizes to be shot for, that of Her Spanish Majesty being the most costly. Most strange to say, amongst the entries there are competitors of all nationalities, except Her Majesty's subjects. Will even one Britisher step forward to-day at the last moment, for the honour of "The flag that braved a thousand years the battle and the breeze."

The Asilo de Huerfanos at Capilla del Señor for destitute orphans is a worthy charity under the auspices of the Associacion de Señoras de Santa Fé, who are now asking subscriptions. They do not plead for much—only $3 for a whole year Few can refuse them such a very modest sum.

If the Locusts when they come next year be not as easily extinguished as a tallow candle by a puff of wind, it will not be for want of projects. Mr. Huergo, C.E., Chief of the Agriculture Office, is now in the field with another plan of campaign against them which has proved very successful in the United States.

We have to thank Mr. Charles Mackern for Sketch, Black and White, People, Times and other London papers to April 30th.

Now that Turks and Greeks have ceased sending each other across the Styx, another war pow-wow in the Western world threatens. Uncle Sam has recognized the Cubans as belligerents, and proud Spain is angry and says she will resist by force the slightest interference in her affairs by the big man who wears a starred-and-striped veskit and pantaloons.

General Levalle, the new Minister of War, is one of the most popular veterans in the army. Never before was the Government House so ablaze with military and naval gold lace as when the old General was sworn in on Tuesday; and his private residence was a "romeria" of congratulating friends up to a late hour at night.

To-morrow, those who love Greece and hate the Turk will have an opportunity of expressing their feelings in a march through the streets, with all the Societies in town, banners waving, bands playing etc. The Pavilion in Plaza San Martin is the place where the speechifying will be done. It is not necessary that all who join the racket be able to make a speech in Greek. Any language will answer the purpose.

Oh! The mines of Mili-Michico in Neuquen have been thrown up. No wonder. The manager had a salary of $1000 gold monthly, and the peons were paid $3 paper daily. Not too much, for them, perhaps, but the manager's salary was a caution for a mine merely on its trial.

The matinée of the Tercerias Franciscanas in Prince George's Hall to-morrow will be a grand affair, as all the "haute volée" will be there, on charity intent. Now that the winter is coming on, and is expected to be severe, the poor of all nationalities should be thought of.

We have to thank Messrs Galli Bros. for the Graphic and Daily News of May 1st.

The unfortunate Southern Railway is ruined. It has been fined $500, with 173 shinplasters as costs, for violation of the Locust Law. It didn't extinguish enough of the pests, we suppose.

Special Notice.

At the American Church Sunday Dr. McLaughlin will preacu at 11 a. m. on A New Message from Christ to Men of our Times. At 7.30 p. m. the subject will be "I came not to call the righteous but sinners to repentance". Strangers are welcome at all services.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral

For Colds, Coughs, Bronchitis, Sore Throat, Influenza, and Incipient Consumption, no remedy approaches Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It has long been the most popular and successful anodyne expectorant in Pharmacy, and is everywhere approved and recommended by the Faculty. It soothes the inflamed membrane, breaks up irritating mucus, allays coughing, and induces repose. As a family emergency medicine, Ayer's Cherry Pectoral takes the lead. For the relief and cure of croup, whooping-cough, sore throat, and all the pulmonary troubles to which the young are so liable, it is invaluable. No household is quite secure without

OF
Mr. Edwin Ellis's
Southdowns in England.
The Summersbury Flock of world-wide reputation is to be dispersed on July 30th 1897 by Messrs. John Thornton and Co. when every ewe and ram is to be sold without reserve, the young lambs of this year only being retained.
The record of this flock is a remarkable one in the history of Southdown Sheep, to which old breed other dark-faced varieties owe so much of their excellence.
Since showing was commenced in 1887, over £2500 has been taken in prize money. The Grand Prize of Honour was taken at the Paris International Exhibition in 1889 for the best collection of sheep "of any kind" in the show, besides three gold medals and several class prizes. The Flockmasters' Jubilee Cup was obtained at the Royal Agricultural Society of England's show in 1889, besides large numbers of special Champion and groups prizes since that date. In fact more first prizes have been won each year than by any other flock of Southdowns in England.
Sheep have been sent to the Continent and to the Colonies. In the United States the success achieved by specimens from this flock has been most remarkable and their progeny have also been highly successful.
The flock consist of about 500 Ewes and 50 Rams, all of which will be unreservedly sold.

FIRST RING..... 195.50
SECOND RING..... 195.80

The more the situation is studied and sifted the stronger must be the conviction that the fall in gold is not the result of any improvement but the consequence of the anaemia that holds the market in its grip. It would be only recounting old woes to tick off again the unsatisfactory features of the situation, and it would use up all the fingers on one hand and leave but few on the other for contingencies; still there are some points, which even though they bear on the surface the impress of bad times, and, thus reflect crisis, may possibly turn out all for the best in the end. We have already alluded to the congestion of this city and its trade; we have shown how over competition provoked an unwholesome expansion of credit, ending up in paralysis, since, to take for example the lumber trade alone, we have quoted figures shewing that the margin of profit had actually become a margin of loss for the big houses. The natural consequence of this congestion pervading all the arteries of trade has been that at the first apoplectic squeeze the patient has given in. Starting from this basis, which is more or less the state of the market, we must naturally expect that in the natural course the excess of business houses causing the undue severity of competition will be wiped out in the struggle, and the market be thus relieved and purified. The crucible is an unerring test; it always gives out the dross, and the latter drops off, which puts business on a sound footing again. This is not conjecture; it is not even an isolated opinion cast at hap-hazard. Ask the bankers, ask merchants, ask the brokers, and all will agree that the commercial depression had to come. It might have been staved off with the help of a big harvest, as then the crucible would not have been called into play, but it was inevitable, it had to come sooner or later, and in the end the quicker it comes the easier always is the reaction and less violent the convulsion. We may set it down, therefore, that the crisis in trade, which is really what is alarming the market and the country, is not a disease but a temporary malady which a vigorous constitution will soon get the better of.

Business in gold at the first hour ran to very close on the round million, which marked a pronounced drop in prices, the latter opening at 296½, to close exactly a point lower. Brokers reported the market heavy. Yet nobody seemed to be able to qualify it, and in the end it will certainly turn out that the break is the nature effect of the bugbear of emission having been banished. Still there is very little doing for dates further on than end of month, so that speculation is still inert, and we are, therefore, as little likely to see a heavy drop as a "tall" advance. The stock board was not so bare as usual, but there was really nothing of importance done or doing.

The following is a summary of the business effected at the first ring to-day:—

The Thames passengers were ashore to-day. She has brought back a number of friends, as will be seen by the list in another column.

At the meeting of shareholders of the Belgrano Gas Co., held on 27th ult in London, the amalgamation of the Company with the Gas Argentina was unanimously agreed to, and a vote of thanks to the board passed.

Messrs Erausquin and Cano, will tomorrow commence the grand auction of horses, cows, steers, sheep, etc., at Merlo on the Western Railway. The animals include several lots of steers from Las "Acacias" belonging to Mr. Benigno Martinez, Bulls from "La Barranessa" Thoroughbred horses and colts from the San Jose establishment belonging to Mr. Roberto Cano, mules from "La Concepcion" borregas belonging to Mr. Jose Romano. Pure bred bull from "Las Pinas", the property of Mr. Marcelo Paz. Forty heifers, the property of Mr. V. Pizarro, and a number of other animals, all from celebrated Cabañas. The sale promises to to be a great success and top the last one, which was also very important.

Brokers and bankers all reported the exchange market paralysed. There are bills offering at 47 9/16d, but no takers, so that if anything, we must quote the market firmer. How long it will last is the question. We quote:

London—47 9/16d- ⅝d.
Paris—4.97½-98 fcs.
Antwerp—4.99½ fcs.
Hamburg—4.06½ marks.
The banks draw at 47 7/16d.
The Rio rate is cabled steady at 7 11/16d.
Discounts are quiet at 5½ to 6½% gold and 7 to 7½% paper.

The Director of Inland Revenue, Mr. Melchor Rom, proposes a change in the mode of assessment for the direct tax. At present the tax is 6 °/₀₀ on three-fourths of the saleable value of the property, but Mr. Rom proposes that it shou d be 5 °/₀₀ on the full value. This would produce a larger revenue, for the value of the property in the capital and National Territories according to the assessment is $1,230,000,000 which at 5% would yield $6,150,000, while 6 °/₀₀ upon three fourths, would yield only $5,735,000.

The failure of the important firm of Barthe and Company, to which we have already alluded, is by no means a bad one, rather the reverse, as the business in the opinion of the auditors, and to all appearances, only requires a little breathing time to come round. According to the balance-sheet the assets stand at $1,783,864 and the liabilities at $1,321,310, leaving a balance of $459,553 in favor of the firm. The pagarés discounted by the banks on the firm's endorsement sum up to $303,731.

At the meeting of creditors of E. Ackerley and Company, held yesterday. the creditors presented their report, which was entirely favorable to the house in question and resulted in an unanimous vote of the creditors to have the moratorium asked for accorded. The assets of the firm are $120,241 gold and $311,493 paper, and the liabilities $174,479 gold and $53,691 paper and labour was dear.

We see by advices from the Neuquen that the Milla Michico mines in that Gobernacion have been abandoned—a complete break-up. The capital was too small to stand the strain, a bare $50,000 paper.

The police have placed hands on a nest of sheep-lifters in the Pampa Central who had accounted for no fewer than 16,000 head before the machinery of law and order began to work. Scarcely an estancia in the Pampa has escaped the attention of the band, and it seems that the "modus operandi" consisted of opening the wires with special keys and abstraction of small "points" which until suspicion was aroused called no attention. There do not appear to be any "alcaldes" or justices of the peace mixed up in the business this time, which is a gratifying sign that the atmosphere of the camp has become purified since Don Narciso took matters in hand.

The Thames mails delivered to-day bring the report of the proceedings at the meeting of the Central Argentine Railway Shareholders, from which we make following abridged extracts:—"Mr. Frederick Neild said he and the secretary left England on 14th January. When they arrived at Buenos Aires they found two-thirds of the crops of the country had been destroyed by locusts. On all sides the locusts had pretty well destroyed the crops, and general consternation prevailed. They were met by a telegram from their colleagues in London expressing very great consternation concerning the harvest. That telegram acted as a sort of wet blanket on their spirits. Before they left there was some talk of the advisability of this company purchasing the Western Railway of Santa Fe. The time, however, was not favourable for such a purchase. He regretted that very much, but he hoped the time would soon come when the matter would crop up again and be considered by the Board. They then proceeded to inspect the route of the extension from Melincue to Pergamino, and, from what they saw, they believed that that railway would be likely to add to the profits of this company. In the district there was very fine high land, a large proportion of which was under cultivation, and the cultivated area would, of course, increase as soon as the railway was made. The burning of the Central station had caused no interference with the traffic, and it was generally pronounced a good riddance; the company owning that station and the companies using it, although inconvenienced by its removal, were from the first, and still were, at one with the public in that opinion. The Minister, however, treated the question in a different spirit, and the question of a new station was now under consideration. Their managers were practical men, perfectly competent to treat the subject when the Minister approached it in a feasible form, but any offers or advances from this side would, in his opinion, be a very grave error, lead to nothing, and place the managers in a false and humiliating position. After considering that matter, they visited the whole system in connection with the Central Argentine Railway, with the exception of the Sastre branch. They found that everything was being carried on in an admirable manner. The only thing they were short of was the corn to carry. The Central Argentine line was of great importance to the country; in fact, as important as the London and North Western of England was to this country. They afterwards visited the unfortunate part of the line Alta Gracia, and passed on to Villa del Rosario. Wherever they went they found signs of probable future prosperity. With regard to Mr. Loveday, the manager, the Chairman had so ably described what the Board thought of him, that it would be superfluous on his part to say anything further. The principal subject which had agitated the minds of the board was the necessity of removing the company's offices from Rosario to the city of Buenos Ayres. A site for new offices was purchased some time ago, and, in his opinion, it would be advisable to erect new offices on that site, the cost of which would, probably amount to about £70,000. The main reason for changing the position of the offices would be that while the manager was in Rosario the opposing managers were picking up the best freights in Buenos Ayres.

Mr. Thompson expressed a hope that no further expenditure would be incurred either in purchasing new lines or in removing the offices to Buenos Ayres. In his opinion, the leases of the Western Buenos Ayres and of the Buenos Ayres Northern had proved suckers instead of feeders to the main line.

The Chairman said that the leasing of the Northern and the Western had been a saving to the company. As regarded the Northern, it had proved a profitable business for some years. They had made a considerable profit upon it, but that profit had been diminished partly by the competition to which the railway was subjected at certain points. He had no doubt, however, that the company would recover its position as the town and suburbs of Buenos Ayres became extended. He might add that the Western Railway gave the company access to the Once station. As a matter of fact, the Western Railway was now very nearly covering its expenses, and he had no doubt it would prove a satisfactory investment in the future. It was not the Board's intention to give up their lease of the Northern Railway.

The Bragado Rural Society will hold its 6th Annual Fair there next September in a fine building opposite the F.C. station. Bragado, will in a short time be the market for produce and products from the important zones of Toay, Pampa Central, and Cordoba, via Villegas.

A sale of 600 steers at $55 per head is reported from Pergamino. We are told that a number of estancieros there have of late obliged a number of their peons to skin animals known to have died from "tristeza!!".

Late rain in Junin has improved the general condition and appearance of camps up there. Two thousand cows were sold last week at $23 each.

It has also rained heavily in Ricja, improving the camps.

Camps in Ayacucho are in a bad state. Three large wells will shortly be dug there to supply the neighbourhood with good water, as that used now has been pronounced as unfit to drink. We hear that the winding up of the Commercial Bank is a certainty, and the shareholders have consented to this step. The reason for this is that a branch of the Banco de la Nacion with a capital of 150,000 shinplasters will shortly bs opened. The capital appears to us very small, taking into consideration the importance of that Department.

One thousand wethers have been sold from Mr Cipriano Newton's establishment in Chascomus at $9.50 each. Another estanciero in the same department reports having sold 300 steers at $55 per head.

Heavy rain has of late fallen in Tandil, and camps and stock are looking better.

El Amigo del Pueblo of Concordia reports that the number of hectares ploughed and ready for sowing wheat this year in Entre Rios amounts to 200,000 and 46,000 for linseed. This shows an increase of 15 % in linseed over flast year's figures, and a decrease of 7 % in wheat.

The annual meeting of the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company, was held at the Law Association Rooms, on April 29, to receive the directors' report and statement of accounts for the past year. Mr. Duncan Graham the chairman of the company, presided, and his speech, which was as usual an admirable and concise epitomé of the company's operations during the year, was listened to with marked attention by a large and appreciative body of shareholders. The record of the London and Lancashire's operations for 1896 in one of which all connected with the company have good reason to be proud. The net premiums amounted to £836,165, and the profit thereon to £84,300 which, with the interest earning of £36,116, make the handsome credit balance of £120,916 as the aggregrate result of the year's working. After payment of the customary dividend of 20 per cent., the substantial sum of £78,366 is added to the reserve fund, bringing the same up to £873,194—the largest amount to which this fund has attained in the history of the company. To appreciate the importance of this result we have to bear in mind that it has been achieved in a year in which the company, in common with many of the British offices, participated in the large loss sustained by the conflagration at Guayaquil in October last. That such a substantial return on the trading as above indicated should appear, notwithstanding the event in question, is eloquent testimony to the potentialities of the company. A reserve fund equalling the annual premium income is usually regarded as the acme of financial strength in a fire insurance company. This position has been improved upon by the London and Lancashire, as the reserves are now appreciably in excess of the premium receipts, and it is worthy of note that taking into account the fully subscribed capital of £2,127,500, the company can now point to a total security to policy-holders of over £3,000,000. Fire business is one of averages—such events as the Guayaquil conflagration of 1896, and that of St. John's N. F., in 1892, are happily not of frequent occurrence, but they are factors which have to be reckoned with as incidental to the business of fire insurance when that is done on a world-wide scale. It is meet, therefore that full provision should be made for all such contingencies, so that when they do occur, they may be met with equanimity. The wisdom, therefore, of the directors in contenting themselves with a repetition of the substantial dividend of 20 per cent. is self-evident. It is because the directors have in the past consistently pursued the wise policy of taking advantage of every opportunity to strengthen the company's financial position by making large additions to the reserves in years of prosperity, that they have been able to continuously pay a handsome return to the shareholders, not only in good years, but when bad times have had to be faced, and persistent adherence to this policy is the best guarantee the shareholders can have for increased distributions in the future, especially for their permanency.

Things are very evidently far from flourishing over the Ridge. The Free Bank project has an unhealthy smack about it, betokening severe provincial strain, and that this does actually exist is proved by the Banco Union, according to the telegrams, having gone into liquidation. The news seems to have caused a very profound impression in business circles, as well it might, but it is hard to understand the contention that such a development was totally unexpected. However, there it is, and it is said that the crisis was brought on by the Banco de Chile pressing for claims. The Banco Union's assets are 3 millions, with more or less same amount of liabilities, and it is hoped that the liquidation will not leave a heavy loss, but it is a bad beginning to the crisis squeeze, as it is more than probable this failure will bring on others. Banks do not go down without a tremendous undersuck.

The sale is reported of 500 novillos for invernada from Mr. Alzaga's estancia Santa Clara, partido 25 de Mayo, at $40 per head, buyer Mr. Altube. Messrs Rocca, Terrarosa and Co. have sold for export 70 steers at $31.

Circulars were handed round to-day announcing removal of the Jewish Colonization Association's offices to the fine property it purchased at Calle Callao 216.

At the meeting of shareholders of the B. Aires (New) Gas Co. held in London on 27th April, the Chairman said a statement of accounts, made up to the 31st December, 1896, shows an improvement in the result of the company's operations during that year of £54,511 12s. 7d., being an increase of about 20 per cent. over that of the preceding year. To this must be added the balance brought forward of £3,532 19s. 10d. After payment of debenture interest amounting to £12,000, and charging against revenue the cost of sundry improvements and alterations on the works and property and other sums, amounting in all to £7,054 15s. 11d., there remains to be dealt with the sum of £38,989 16s. 6d. From this, £15,000 has already been paid to the shareholders as an "interim" dividend, and the directors now recommend that a final dividend of 6s. per share, amounting to £15,000, be declared and paid, making the dividend 6 per cent., free of income-tax, for the year 1896. After transferring £5,000 to Reserve, there remains £3,989 16s. 6d. to be carried forward. The profit would have been greater but for the increased taxation, which now amounts to 6¾ d. per 1000 feet, which is a very heavy item. During the past year the works have been kept in good order. Our consulting engineer, Mr. Simmelkjoer, who has lately been out in Buenos Aires, says he has no hesitation in stating that the works are kept in excellent state of repair. Last year we sanctioned an extra expenditure in revising the service pipes, thus reducing considerably the leakage. We have saved by this means some 19,000,000 feet of gas, or 1800 tons of coal, also men's wages for making this gas, fuel, and wear and tear. The unaccounted for gas in 1896, as compared with 1895, has been reduced to 9 ¼ per cent., as against 14¼ per cent in 1895. The oil plant has been working satisfactorily. We have now two oil tanks, and we propose putting up a third in order to provide ourselves with ample storage accommodation for all the oil we require. Our coal sheds have also been increased, and we are now able to store 6 months supply of coal under cover, which is a matter of very great importance.

Business was fairly brisk in gold at the second hour, over half a million changing hands. There was a slight rally in prices at the start, but subsequently they began to crumble again and left off weak at 295 ¼, which may be attributed to the report that the National Government gives the Distress Commissioners a million of dollars in Treasury Bills, thus completely shutting the door on emissions. There is very little doing for June at a bare point pass. In stocks the main feature was a heavy drop in Spanish Banks which fell from 127 to 121, and we understand are now quoted at 120 sellers. The new Municipal bonds were posted for first time at 76 to 80, but we are likely to see them lower than this and it is hinted that the sales this evening were "gatos." The new National G Cedulas also made their debut at 80 which is likely to improve, as the emission will not be heavy. Catalinas were steady.

The following is a summary of the business effected in stocks and shares at the second ring:—

Governor Herrera of Catamarca has been able to read a most favourable message to his chambers, as it shews that the revenue has doubled without any new taxation. The Municipal revenue also shows wonderful vitality, and has allowed of a regular service of aguas corientes, electric light and sanitary arrangements, conditions that it is hoped will soon exist all over the province. The administration of Justice and Education also show satisfactory progress. The home debt is $596,072, but there are no issues of Treasury bills or vales. The foreign debt stands at $3,024,000, the service of which is made with National Bonds, so far as they will admit, but there is a balance against the province and the service has not been regular since 1891. The salaries of the provincial administration are two months in arrears. The profits of the Bank during 1896 were $128,535, the liquidation going steadily on.

GENERAL.
The French ss Aquitaine which left this port yesterday for Marseilles is still in the Roads, owing to the arbitrary conduct of the Brazilian Vice-Consul. It appears that this gentlemen yesterday insisted on the Captain of the vessel giving him quadruple documents in which the consignees cargo and the name of the party to whom the cargo was consigned in Rio Janeiro figure: neither the agents or the consignees were ready to satisfy this new demand at a moment's notice. The Brazilian Vice-Consul therefore refused to sign the ships papers without which the Aquitaine could not possibly leave the port as her captain would incur a heavy penalty if he entered the harbour of Rio without these papers. The Agents finally went to the French Minister here and appealed to him against the obstinacy of the Vice-Consul but the matter could not be settled and the Aquitaine is still in the Roads with a crowd of passengers on board. The losses occasioned to the Company are very heavy and the Agents intend to prosecute the Vice-Consul.
The Port authorities to-day granted sailing permits to the following vessels: Bellova for Antwerp and intermediate ports and Danish barque Serapis for Falmouth.
The following are posted to leave this port to-morrow:—Olimpo for Dunkerque, Austrian for Liverpool via La Plata, Highland Glen for Liverpool, Ethelburga for Montevideo and Dowgate for Rosario.
The French ss Caravellas is expected here to-morrow from Havre and intermediate ports with passengers and cargo.

REGISTERED KENT
OR
SHEEP

The attention of flockmasters throughout the world is called to the above breed of sheep, which is establishing a reputation second to none, both at home and abroad.
Australia, New Zealand, the Argentine Republic, Cape Colony and Natal South Africa and the Falkland Islands have found them most valuable in that before any other sheep they readily adapt themselves to climatic variations and thrive upon any sort of feed,
The characteristics of the Kent or Romney Marsh breed are the production of mutton of the highest quality with a large proportion of lean meat, the rendering of a heavy fleece of good demi-lustre wool and the greatest possible thriftiness.
These sheep graze evenly over any land upon which they are depastured and do not herd together, as is the case with many other breeds.
For crossing with other breeds, the Romney Marsh stands unequalled, brining as it does a hardy constitution combined with great kindliness points which are all important in a grazing animal.
Full information and a list of Breeders of Registered Kent or Romney Sheep can be obtained from W. W. Chapman, Secretary of the Kent or Romney Marsh Sheep Breeders' Association, Fitzalan House, Arundel Street, Strand, London, England.
